"It's All About Wildlife"™

Buffalo, Missouri: "Part of telling the entire wildlife story is to experience the hunting lifestyle and what better places to enjoy time afield than professionally run and managed hunting plantations and lodges" states Craig Alderman of QUWF. "Today we are pleased to announce three more new large acreage properties for all hunting enthusiasts to enjoy" explains Craig. "Anderson Creek in North Carolina, Reneau Farms and 2 M Outfitters in Texas offer thousands of acres of great hunting, professional guides and the real treat for wing shooters, large kennels of well trained dogs and handlers to hunt over and with" details Alderman.

"Places to Hunt" and enjoy a great hunting experience are welcomed by our outdoor community and we are pleased to continually expand options for our membership, sponsors and partners to enjoy. These properties offer a multitude of hunting challenges from deer and turkey to quail, dove, duck, chucker, elk, mule deer and provide varying levels of hunts for all to enjoy. The QUWF Plantation and Hunting Lodge members offer hundreds of thousands of acres to excite any hunter and some will let you bring your own dogs. Many perform intense wildlife habitat and population work, "turnin-the-dirt" helping to keep the wild critters on the landscape" explains Nick Prough, Chief Wildlife Biologist for QUWF.

Details and contact information on all "Places to Hunt" are being posted and featured on QUWF's web site including these three new facilities ready to take you and your hunting buddies on a great experience outdoors. Check them out and load the truck.
